

HAMMOND, SANE, GETS A WELCOME FROM EMPLOYEES

Remarkable Demonstration on His Return to Typewriter
Factory To-Day.

AGAIN IN FULL CHARGE.

Relatives Defeated in an Effort to Have Him Declared Incompetent.

When James Bartlett Hammond, inventor of the Hammond typewriter and the president of the Hammond Typewriter Company, returned to-day to the plant which he had founded, after having been confined for several months in a sanitarium as an alleged lunatic, he got such a welcome from his employees as a staid manufacturing establishment rarely sees.

A blast from a whistle was the signal that had been agreed upon when the old inventor's carriage topped the slope leading down to the East River. At the first note 250 men and women operatives swarmed out of the big shop at the foot of East Sixty-ninth street and swarmed up the hill.

First they lowered from two telegraph poles the effigy of one of the men who had tried to have Mr. Bartlett declared insane. They drenched the dummy with oil, set fire to it and hung it in mid-air, where it blazed merrily to the tune of much cheering.

After that some of the men took the horses out of the traces, hitched themselves to the carriage and hauled their employer to the doors of the factory. On the shoulders of four of the foremen he rode to his office, where there were speeches and a general jubilation. The whole building had been decorated with flowers, bunting and flags. Not many typewriter factories were turned out at the Hammond factory to-day.

It was last April that Mr. Hammond was arrested on the complaint of his brother, Thomas P. Hammond, and Alfred Bryce, the acting manager of the plant. Two other brothers and three sisters joined in the effort to have him adjudged insane. Pending a final decision, Mr. Hammond was sent to a private asylum in West Seventy-fourth street. Last night a sheriff's jury of seventeen members was just ten minutes reaching a decision that Mr. Hammond was sane. To-day's demonstration followed.

Mr. Hammond was born in 1823. He has been in his life a stenographer, newspaper reporter, war correspondent, inventor, manufacturer and millowner. He is a bachelor, living at the Hotel Cumberland. A few years ago he formulated a plan to give his business to such of his employees as had helped him to make it a success. To combat this plan his relatives sought to have him adjudged mentally incompetent.

BROKER B. W. BUNKER, OF CONSOLIDATED, SUSPENDS.

The suspension of B. W. Bunker, a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, was announced on the floor of that institution to-day. Bunker has offices at No. 25 Broadway. He has been a member of the Consolidated Exchange since May 31. Mr. Bunker declared that the suspension was only a temporary one and that he expected to resume business tomorrow or Monday at latest. Asked as to the cause of the trouble, he replied: "It was brought about by our being tied up with a lot of long stock."

TROOPS OFF WITH MACHINE GUNS TO AWE MINERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 6.—Col. Alfred Reynolds, of the Twenty-second United States Infantry, is the senior officer in command of the troops, which left to-day for Goldfield, Nev., to prevent rioting by the striking miners there. The soldiers were dispatched by order of Gen. Funston, who acted under instructions from President Roosevelt.

A striking and significant part of their equipment were a number of machine guns, the evidence of the sort of warfare that will be made on the miners if they show fight.

The movement was provided with a supply of tents and thirty days' rations, in addition to their arms and ammunition. A special train took the troops from Fort McDowell to Goldfield, leaving at 2 o'clock this morning from the Oakland depot. It is about fifteen hours ride from this city to Goldfield by rail. A smaller detachment of troops sent from Monterey were later in starting than the force from this city, owing to delay in getting the special train to that point. They proceeded direct on their way to Goldfield without coming here.

In all, nearly a full regiment will be put in the field, accompanied by a battery of machine guns.

The trouble at Goldfield is due to a deadlock. Mine owners say they propose to keep the mines shut down until the violent conduct of the miners' union and the lawless element generally in the camp are compelled to leave.

As the mines have been closed several days the men are beginning to feel the pinch. They are striking because paid in bank notes, which is greatly depreciated and in many places is refused altogether.
